DAKIN'S CHOLERA ELIXIR.—A prolonged experience of this epidemic in India, its home and birth-place, has proved beyond all doubt the efficacy of this remedy, which combines in a concentrated form the medicinal agents which have proved most useful in arresting the rapid progress of that fatal malady, and in combating it when developed.

Full directions accompany each bottle. Per bottle, $1.50 and $3.

Cholera Pills are made from an old, well-tried formula, and are most useful in the early stage of an attack. Per bottle, 50 cents.

Dakin's Chlorodyne is Sedative, Anodyne, and Anti-spasmodic. This reliable remedy has long been used throughout the East as a stand-by in Cholera and Diarrhoea. In bottles, 55, 75 cents, $1.50 and $2.75.

Dr. Rubin's Essence of Camphor.—Valuable for simple Diarrhoea, and in the earlier stages of Dysentery and Cholera. Per bottle, 50 cents.

Fluid Extract of Indian Bael (prepared from the unripe fruit of the Bael Marmelos). Of great service in Diarrhoea and Chronic Dysentery. Per bottle, $1.

Dietetic Biscuits.—A highly agreeable and nutritious diet, particularly recommended in derangement of the digestive organs, looseness, and irritation of the bowels.

This preparation has been in use in India for thirty years, and is there regarded as a specific in Diarrhoea and Dysentery. Per tin, $1.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The Portuguese gunboat Tefa arrived in port this morning from Macao.

We learn from native sources that the troubles in Hallow have subsided, and commerce has been resumed.

The Thermopylae, shortly expected from Singapore, has been chartered to proceed from this port to San Francisco.

The Kostroma, a three thousand tonner of the Russian "Dobrovolnoe Flot," arrived here to-day from Singapore. She is under the command of Captain Ivanovsky, I.R.N., and carries, amongst her passengers, three Russian generals and several other military officers, with their wives and families, amongst whom is General Council chief of the military staff of South-east Siberia. The Kostroma is a new ship and was built at Newcastle-on-Tyne by Messrs. Wigham, Richardson & Co. She steams 14 knots per hour. One hundred and twenty of her passengers, the wives of exiles, will be landed at Saghalien and there remain as colonists.

SIBERIA is said to have a spot of ground about thirty miles square that has not thawed out for a hundred years, and is frozen to a depth of sixty feet.

BYRON'S amusing comedy "Uncle" is the subject which Miss Gracie Plafsted's Company will treat at the Theatre Royal, City Hall, this evening.

A REGULAR Convocation of St. Andrew's Chapter, No. 218, S.C., will be held in Freemasons' Hall, Zealand Street, this evening, at 8 for 8.30 o'clock precisely. Visiting companions are cordially invited.

We are informed by the Agents (Messrs. Arnold, Karberg & Co.) that the China Shipper's Mutual S.N. Co.'s steamer Kailash, from Middlesbrough and Liverpool, left Singapore for this port yesterday, and may be expected on or about the 14th inst.

CAPT. TAYLER, of the Diamond, states that soon after leaving Manila on Tuesday morning he saw the Calicut being towed into Manila by an unknown steamer. He expects that her masts will be brought up by the Nansing, due on Saturday morning.

THE Polo match, A. and S. Highlanders v. The Club, which was postponed, will take place on Causeway Bay Ground at 5 p.m. to-morrow, the 10th inst. The Band of the A. & S. Highlanders will attend. There will be a practice game in the intervals of the match.

Of the entire human race 500,000,000 are well clothed—that is, they wear garments of some kind; 250,000,000 habitually go naked, and 700,000,000 only cover parts of the body; 500,000,000 live in houses, 700,000,000 in huts and caves, and 250,000,000 virtually have no shelter.

THE Band of the A. & S. Highlanders will play the following programme at Causeway Bay, to-morrow, commencing at 4.45 p.m.

March, "Pine and Larch" (Harrison).
"Grave and Heroic" (Libby).
"The Princess of Trebizond" (Offenbach).
"Husarenritt" (Spilner).
"Op. 74" (Mars).

THE following exhibit shows the rate of the internal taxes per gallon of pure alcohol in European countries: Denmark, 40 cents; Austria, 20 cents; Italy, 22 cents; Germany, 24 cents; Roumania, 31 cents; Belgium, 54 cents; Sweden, 70 cents; France, $1.14; Russia, $1.77; England, $3.61.

THE Government Statistician of New South Wales, T. A. Cophlan, has estimated the population of Australia at the beginning of the current year to be 3,780,798. This is an increase during 1889 of 133,995, or 3.10 per cent. The population of New Zealand is now 620,270, an increase during the year 1889 of 12,899.

YESTERDAY, 23 one of the Peak train-cars was ascending the hill; the brake chain broke and became twisted round the axle of two trucks. The car was immediately stopped, and on examination it was found that both sides were sprung to such an extent that it was necessary to take them out and send them to be straightened.

PROFESSOR (lecturing)—It is an established fact that a person cannot live for a long time of time with only one lung. Student—1 know a woman who has been living with one lung for a good many years, and is hale and hearty. Professor (excitedly)—Impossible! Prove it, sir! Who is it a woman? Student—The wife of the Chinese Minister at Washington; his name is Lun Lung.

THE Band of the A. & S. Highlanders will play the following programme at the Barrack Square, on Saturday next, commencing at 7.30 p.m.

THE German bark Adolph, which arrived here from Hamburg via Singapore to-day, reports that after leaving Singapore, when in Lat. 14° north Long. 115° East she found herself on the outskirts of a typhoon, which necessitated her running to the southward for several days. On the 5th instant the wind moderated and shifting to the north-east and eastward she was able to beat up to Hongkong.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN of Philadelphia is fond of bon-mot, and is a good bon-mot himself. At a dinner at Mr. Secretary Blaine's house at Mount Desert, last year, William Walter Phelps said, in the course of a discussion of the Irish question, "But you must admit, Bishop Ryan, that many practices of the Irish in Ireland to-day are treason." "Ah, but treason is reason in Ireland on account of the absent T," retorted the Archbishop.

THE weather in the Red Sea has been extremely warm this season, and passengers coming out during the past month have had a good deal to put up with. The Oreya had to be turned round in order that full advantage might be taken of what little breeze there was. One assistant steward died, and over a dozen lady-passengers fainted in consequence of the heat. The Diaphia, a French steamer, had a very similar experience, and one day as she was coming through the temperature was 116°.

An amusing incident, with a rather painful aspect for the one concerned, occurred in M. Andreu's haircutting rooms in Singapore a few days ago. It appears that before M. Andreu arrived, one of the Chinese employees wished to perfume himself, and for the purpose took up an attractive looking perfume bottle, the liquid contained in which he proceeded to pour over his head; but it was not a pleasant operation, as the perfume turned out to be explosive. The Chinaman set out for Mr. Manney's Dispensary considerable despatch, and was attended to as promptly that he escaped serious injury.

THE three pig-pirates whose acts have been the subject of protracted inquiries by Mr. Wodehouse at the Police Court were brought up this morning, on remand. Lau Fai-ling, a military officer from Chinese Kowloon, appeared in court to prove that the piracy of the junk Wing Hop Yung was committed in Chinese waters, near Chai Wan Chi village. The prisoners were committed to goal pending orders from the Officer Administering the Government respecting their rendition, a period of 15 days being allowed during which these charming specimens of humanity will have an opportunity of applying to the Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus.

THERE is a quaint old saying that some people "cannot see wood for trees." The Police occasionally distinguish themselves in this direction. Whilst the senior inspector bothers himself laying traps for the Wei-sing lottery agents here, and gets a few cases in which, (curious to say) the Crown Solicitor deems it his duty to at length appear, half-a-dozen impudent Indian lads pester passers-by in Queen's Road and other thoroughfares, offering Manila lottery tickets. They even go the length of importuning the police themselves, in the Central Station. We may remind our protectors that an Ordinance directed specially against this offence was passed not very long ago, and that the nuisance is increasing.

VENEZUELA bachelors are taxed one per cent. of their income when making from $600 to $1,250 a year, and when upward of $5,000 the tax is two per cent.

A REGULAR meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 1165, E.C., will be held in Freemasons' Hall, Zealand Street, on Thursday, the 10th instant, at 8.30 for 9 p.m. precisely. Visiting brethren are cordially invited.

THERE was quite a scene of excitement created at about 10.30 this morning outside a well-known hang on the Bund, says the Shanghai Mercury of Saturday last, by a crowd of vociferating and noisy native ladies of all ages, who proceeded thither in a body to protest against an increase in the rental of their houses in the French Concession by the firm. After they had seen the commodore and he had used his efforts to mollify them, promising to exert his influence with his employers on their behalf, the women went away, roundly inveighing in choice vernacular against the injustice of paying "fines," and most of all an increase of some 50 per cent., which they allege had been imposed upon them.

SISTER ROS GERTRUDE, the lady who shortly after Father Damien's death went out under Pall Mall Gazette auspices to the Honolulu Leper Station as a volunteer, is about to relinquish her work to make room for Independent missionaries, who are stated to have stirred up considerable feeling against her. Recently, the Board of Health for the district appointed a new manager, and his harsh treatment of the patients, coupled with his interference with her own plans, which she considers had worked well, soon disgusted Sister Gertrude. She states that several patients have lately been cured, and this statement was confirmed by Dr. Lutz, the governor's physician, in an interview which a press representative had with him on the subject. Dr. Lutz further expressed his belief that leprosy can be checked, and that it is not contagious. The cases which he had cured, proved not to be beyond the control of physicians.

ANOTHER of those industrious heathen who travel to and from Singapore, and other parts of the East, as second and third-class passengers, for the purpose of "making a haul" out of unsuspecting passengers, was amongst the elite at Mr. Wodehouse's magisterial levee this morning. He was charged by Acting Inspector Hanson with stealing a Chinese bill of exchange for $500 from a fellow passenger on board the steamer Agila while en route from Singapore to Hongkong this week. Chang Cheung Min, a miner from Perak, was called in evidence, and stated that the bill of exchange produced in Court was his property, and that during the voyage up from Singapore, while the ship was pitching and tossing one stormy night, his purse was cut off his belt. He searched for the bill the next day, but could not find it. As soon as he landed he managed to "stop" payment of it. In the meantime the delinquent went to Messrs. Douglas Laprak's, and offered it for sale for the paltry sum of $30, which was refused. Mr. Laprak immediately communicating with the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, on which institution the bill was drawn. That fact probably accounted for the defendant coming with it to the Central Station, fearing that its retention by him might lead to very serious consequences. His Worship remanded the case until Monday next, allowing bail in two sureties of $250 each.

THAT Heaven-sent barrier again! When will the Vicerey of Canton have the good sense to remove that useless relic of the Franco-Chinese flam by having the sticks, stones, and chibis, piled up as a barrier in the Canton river, removed once and for all? It is a constant source of annoyance to foreign steamers, and a passive craft as well. Last night, as the steamship Pouan was coming down from Canton, the officer of the watch sighted a fleet of junk coming towards the narrow channel in the barrier. It being manifest that a collision with some of them would probably result from an attempt to keep the ship on her course at full speed the engines were stopped, and in patience the huge unwieldy mass of puny rivals through the gap. On they came under full sail and with a strong tide; first one, then two, then a dozen or so, one after another, many of them getting foul of the Pouan in the narrow waters. One of them by some means got under the port "guard" of the steamer, and it took considerable time to clear her away. No damage was done to the Canton liner, fortunately, but the annoyance of really needless delay had to be borne, as is usual in such cases, with loss of time and more or less risk. This is not the first, but about the thousandth time that we have seen the useless relic of the Franco-Chinese flam. What a pity he couldn't take it with him to Hupch province, where he now is in all his viceregal glory.

BRITISH colonisation, according to a Sydney Bulletin writer, is a process of three stages. The first consists in snuffing over the unhappy native, the second in murdering him by various means, and the third in snuffing over him again after he is dead. Other nations murder without sufficient to preserve a few and a decaying race from extermination; we would prefer the foreign method. The snuff is miserably inconspicuous. Even the scanty intelligence of the missionary is sufficient to tell him that the incessant repressing of the Anglo-Saxon will lead him to overrun New Guinea as he has overrun so many other countries in the past, and even the limited reasoning powers of the preacher must tell him that his picture of an Arcadian church on the islands is the simplest of shams. He has already failed miserably in every country on earth—including his own—and every successive failure is worse than the last. The shoddy believer who is to sing hymns under the palm-trees never even starts his first verse. The person with the club and the squashed hat who is to be converted and carry round the plate (doesn't fill) his mission work a cent, because he is away calling a boiled chick upon his native hills. The reclaimed exhorter with the fishbone stuck through his nose never exhorts, and the reason is that he is out killing somebody, or whaling his wife with a bunch of brambles. But if everything else fails the missionary generally gets far enough ahead of the natives to get his hands on the secular law, and he is doing this in New Guinea to the utmost of his ability. After that the heathen must take his chance, and it is generally a bad one. But if, as is most probable, the aboriginal of New Guinea is to go the way of the rest, then for heaven's sake let it be acknowledged openly that he was killed off because he was in the road; and let none of the people who plundered him from the missionary downwards, make a hollow show of yearning after him when he is dead. For this yearning business has been longer played out, for at least a half a century.

SUPREME COURT.

IN ORIGINAL JURISDICTION.

Mr. Robinson (instructed by Mr. Wilkinson) applied to the Court for an interim injunction to restrain Mr. Bruce Shepherd, Office Administrator, from selling, offering for sale, or otherwise dealing with the furniture of the petitioner, Miss Eva Saunders, at 44 Lyndhurst Terrace. The application was made under section 18 of the Code. He then read the petitioner's affidavit, which set out that the premises were let to the late A. G. Apcer, but had been in her occupation since August 1889. Apcer only going there as her guest. He died on the 16th ult., and Mr. Shepherd, as the administrator of his estate, had seized the furniture and advertised it for sale by auction. The whole of the furniture belonged to defendant, "with the exception of a piano, cabinet, and some small articles of verru" (laughter) and was purchased by her, a considerable portion of it having been paid for by her out of her own money, the rest being bought with money supplied by Apcer out of affection for her, without any expectation of repayment. The facts of the case, Mr. Robinson continued, were that Miss Saunders was for some time the mistress of A. G. Apcer. Mr. Shepherd, in his official capacity, stood in the shoes of the deceased, and not in the position of a creditor, and as the deceased could not—and if he could, would not—have seized the goods, since he never had any property in them, Mr. Shepherd was acting improperly in so doing. Accordingly to the affidavit he had not even the right of action to recover any money advanced to her as a free will offering to the woman, and he could no more recover it than he could recover bets on horses or stakes on cards.

His Lordship granted the interim injunctions pending the settlement of the dispute.

A FAMILY QUARREL.

Matilda Horton, wife of Inspector Horton appeared at the Police Court this morning before Mr. Wodehouse, in response to a summons charging her with maliciously assaulting Sarah Leslie, her daughter, last week.

Mr. Caldwell, who appeared for the plaintiff, said the complainant and defendant resided at 11 Orchard Street, and on the morning of the 24th of September, last week, the mother entered her daughter's house and while using very foul language assaulted her by beating her severely. He (Mr. Caldwell) therefore, upon receipt of instructions from the complainant, sent a letter to the defendant requesting her in very express terms to abstain from further intrusion at her daughter's house and warning her that any further act of violence would become the subject of a Magisterial inquiry. Last Saturday morning the defendant entered her daughter's house and there, in the presence of the amah and boy, committed a most aggravated assault, pulling out a great deal of her daughter's hair and using very filthy language.

Complainant said she had been married to Mr. Leslie, an engineer on board the steamship Whampoa, now at Shanghai, for seven years. She was 24 years of age. The defendant was her mother, and they lived opposite each other in Wanchai. She was not dependent on her mother and father. On the morning of the 4th instant she was at home, when, at 7 o'clock, her mother came right up to her in the sitting-room. Her amah, boy, and three children were in the room. The defendant came up to her and said, "You sent me a lawyer's letter?" Witness answered that she had, because she had been abused and assaulted the previous Monday, and protection was necessary. She (the mother) started abusing witness and called her several filthy names and spat in her face. She then ordered her mother out, but the latter not only would not go but rushed at her, seizing her hair and tearing it out. In defence witness struck her mouth with the right hand, which was bitten. Witness then fell on the floor, whereupon her mother battered her with a cloth, brush, while lying on the floor her mother tore her hair out in the bunches produced. Witness had several bruises in various parts of her body. Inspector Horton, her father, then came into the room and was followed by a Sikh constable, whom witness told to go away. Her father sent Mrs. Horton away, and shortly followed himself.

Witness—What do you want now? Witness—I want protection.

His Worship—What did you do to annoy the defendant?

Witness replied that she had been to the theatre and tea-parties. On the evening of the 20th ultimo she was going out of her door towards the theatre when her mother accosted her and, saying she should not go to the theatre, tore her dress off her back and slapped her face violently in the street. Witness then beat a retreat into her house, whither her mamma followed her, and there remained until ten p.m., when she left. The following day witness consulted Mr. Caldwell with the result that the letter referred to was sent to the defendant. Witness did not know why the defendant objected to her going to the theatre, her mother battered her with a cloth, brush, while lying on the floor her mother tore her hair out in the bunches produced. Witness had several bruises in various parts of her body. Inspector Horton, her father, then came into the room and was followed by a Sikh constable, whom witness told to go away. hard labour meted out to the libeller may be made to contribute somewhat towards the attainment of another object—an object which the restitution to Mr. Eddy of the fished slice of his official reputation is of but very slender moment. One of the jurors who found Martin guilty wrote to the newspapers a few days ago, saying that, had he known Judge McFarland would impose a sentence so monstrously out of proportion with the malignity of the offence, nothing but physical exhaustion would have induced him to concur in the finding. Another juror writes to say that he was trapped into a verdict by the Crown Prosecutor's declaration that it was no part of the jury's duty to consider Martin's intentions or motives when he wrote the libel. It is not the novelty of these jurors' sentiments which suggests reflection. Many jurors, and many a jury, on finding the verdict cast by them followed by a vindictive, a blind, or a savage punishment, have privately wished that they could take the finding back. These two jurors step into the open, however, and dissent from the sentence in language which indicates that when next called upon for a verdict, they will make it their business to find out not alone what is the fact, but whether the law under which it falls is blind, vindictive, or savage.

For generations it has been insisted that the whole duty of man as a juror was to pronounce on the fact of the guilt or innocence of an accused. The kind and degree of the punishment to be inflicted were authoritatively excluded from his consideration. If he became aware that an offence, venial in his eyes, was to be followed by a punishment, barbarous in his eyes, he was instructed to relegate the latter fact to forgetfulness and devote his entire energies to the investigation of the first. As a matter of order, thinking the instruction was no doubt commendable. One part of a subject should be completed at a time. But gradually jurors discovered that by obeying the instruction to the letter they passed persons on to punishments greatly in excess of the enormity of their crimes. Now came conflict. The juror out of joint with law was met by a legal obligation on one side and by a duty to his conscience on the other. He could refuse to pass the culprit on and break his oath, or act up to his oath and constitute himself an accomplice in the infliction of an undue punishment. Sometimes, indeed, he found himself (and still finds) confronted by the alternatives of perjury or murder. Here is where average human nature has proved, and will prove, itself stronger than any argument yet brought to bear upon it on itself of Law. If a culprit can only be punished through a jury pronouncing that he must be punished, the average juror will feel that he has a right to at least take part in dictating the measure of the punishment.

When once his sense of the fair proportion between an offence and its punishment has been legally violated this feeling will amount to a demand, and if the demand be too long resisted, will result in a system in which jurors will sit obstinately in their room applauded by their consciences and set the judicial machinery at defiance.

Martin's jurors are only bolder than a thousand others, but a couple of hundred like them are all that are wanted to bring the present system of trial by jury to absolute end in every Australian capital. The jurors sit in to confer upon the case on his bench, the prisoner stands in the dock—with a couple of men like Martin's jurors on each jury, where law is to come in? The approach of this legal cataclysm has, it must be confessed, not been unobserved. Sir Alfred Stephen has for years past been urging that juries should be disbanded once for all, and that accused persons should be handed over just as they are to the remorseless judicial clutch. He has not succeeded in impressing great number with his idea, but, looking to the future, we see that in dictating the measure of the punishment, the juror is in a position to confer upon the accused a right which he has not, and which he should not have. The juror is in a position to confer upon the accused a right which he has not, and which he should not have. The juror is in a position to confer upon the accused a right which he has not, and which he should not have.

Witness then beat a retreat into her house, whither her mamma followed her, and there remained until ten p.m., when she left. The following day witness consulted Mr. Caldwell with the result that the letter referred to was sent to the defendant. Witness did not know why the defendant objected to her going to the theatre, her mother battered her with a cloth, brush, while lying on the floor her mother tore her hair out in the bunches produced. Witness had several bruises in various parts of her body. Inspector Horton, her father, then came into the room and was followed by a Sikh constable, whom witness told to go away. Her father sent Mrs. Horton away, and shortly followed himself.

Witness—What do you want now? Witness—I want protection.

His Worship—What did you do to annoy the defendant?

Witness replied that she had been to the theatre and tea-parties. On the evening of the 20th ultimo she was going out of her door towards the theatre when her mother accosted her and, saying she should not go to the theatre, tore her dress off her back and slapped her face violently in the street. Witness then beat a retreat into her house, whither her mamma followed her, and there remained until ten p.m., when she left. The following day witness consulted Mr. Caldwell with the result that the letter referred to was sent to the defendant. Witness did not know why the defendant objected to her going to the theatre, her mother battered her with a cloth, brush, while lying on the floor her mother tore her hair out in the bunches produced. obtained a life position in the Federal Judiciary. Had he been appointed Judge of the United States District Court he would have resigned, to resume the practice of his profession. There is a latent danger lurking in this condition of affairs, as every thoughtful citizen must see. In a government constituted like ours it is of the highest importance that the judiciary should be above reproach. It should challenge respect and inspire confidence. The only way to place the bench in a position to command popular respect and confidence is to enable it to command the best talent and learning at the bar.—Alta California.

A CONTEST FOR ENDURANCE.

THE CHAMPION OILY DEVOURER.

One of those delightfully unconventional affairs which now and then create a ripple August the "sports" of New York, occurred the other day at Mr. John Mulvihill's saloon, 288 Front Street, sometimes called the "Truck Drivers' Retreat." It was an onion-eating match of more than ordinary pretensions. The entries for the championship were Colonel Joe Brown, a colored gentleman with a vigorous appetite; George, the Norwegian, an acquaintance of Hendrik Ibsen, the playwright; Paddy the Sojer, a gentleman of leisure; and an aspirant for onion-eating honors named Billy Burke. Daniel O'Connell held the watch and acted as referee. The onions were placed on a round table on soup plates. The contestants were of the Bermuda variety, succulent and odoriferous. A liberal quantity of salt, pepper and vinegar was provided. The prizes were a five-dollar bill and the notoriety consequent upon victory. The conditions were briefly that the man who ate the largest number of onions in ten minutes should win.

A hundred interested spectators crowded round the contestants and eagerly awaited the signal to begin. At about 9.15 o'clock O'Connell gave the word, and five onions rose simultaneously to ten eager sets of teeth. The Norwegian had the largest mouth. His teeth closed on a whole onion. As he crushed to between his jaws the powerful and diastolic incisor arose into his eyes and made him wink and blink like a toad in a shower. The others were more deliberate. They stopped to remove the skins from the onions with knives, thereby permitting the Norwegian to get well along on the quarter-stretch, and take a good lead. On the second bulb, however, the Norwegian was seized with a sudden and violent fit of coughing, which allowed the Colonel Brown to catch up and pass the leader in a cater. The Colonel grinned, showed his splendid teeth and settled down to hold his lead. Meanwhile the pace had become too hot for Paddy the Sojer, Billy Burke and George Stinger, who retired to the hydrant to wash away the pungent Bermuda taint which had mingled with their breath, while the crowd cheered the two remaining men.

At the end of five minutes the Norwegian was rapidly regaining his lost ground by attacking strictly to business, while Colonel Brown foolishly dillydallied with the contents of the minutes went by it appeared to be a nip-and-tuck race, but the Colonel forged steadily ahead because of his eminently superior grinders, and came under the wire a clean onion to the good. He had eaten eight onions in the ten minutes, and was declared the victor by acclamation. The disappointed Norwegian turned sadly away from the table and exclaimed: "I ain't much on eatin', but I'd like to see the man can beat me drinkin'!"

Paddy the Sojer accounted for his failure by the remark: "I had a bit o' bread wid me legguins I c'd beat the world."

The winners squandered his hard-earned money over the bar.

CESAR'S IDEAS ON MARRIAGE.

The young wife died; but when Cesar again thought of marriage the political aspect had changed. He had held firm to the idea of marriage, and he now conciliated the Sylla faction by marrying Pompeia, the granddaughter of Sylla, and a kinswoman of Sylla's pet, Pompey the Great, then in the zenith of his popularity. It seems to have been from the beginning a marriage of politics and not of affection. Pompeia was not beloved. And the political aspect went on changing. The star of Sylla sank beneath the horizon, and the star of Cesar mounted higher and higher. When all advantage could spring from wedding Pompeia had been secured. Cesar's thoughts turned elsewhere. The plots of Sylla against Cesar's Cornelia must seal the dead lips of Sylla against reproach, should Cesar repudiate Pompeia. But it was not the dead that Cesar regarded. It behooved him only to have a specious case to present to the living.

Cesar made short work of his part in the transaction. He divorced Pompeia. It is not certain that Pompeia knew of Claudius' plan, though it is possible. It is not certain or probable that Claudius as bad as he was meant anything more than an impious and impudent folly. It is not impossible or altogether improbable that Cesar, Aurelia and Claudius were in collusion against Pompeia. It is certain that, when Cesar was called upon to testify at the trial of Claudius, he declared that he knew nothing of what was alleged against him. It is certain that, when Claudius afterward became a candidate for high office, Cesar, as Chief Magistrate—let us say President—took an active and successful part in furthering his election. But he immediately divorced Pompeia. And he could offer no better reason, saturated all through and through as he was with immorality, than the cruel sophism, "Cesar's wife should be above suspicion."

The world has taken him at his word; he has forgotten outraged Pompeia, has fallen to discern this glittering and sounding generalization, the base pretext of a man who was hunting for pretexts to divorce his wife, has accepted it, at Cesar's own valuation, as the lofty requirements of a lofty soul!

I trust that Cesar's moral nature has so far righted itself in the spiritual world as to make him rejoice that his sin has found him out in this, even at so late a day.—Gail Hamilton, in North American Review for August.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is prescribed by Physicians all over the world. It is a remarkable remedy for Consumption, Scrophulous, and wasting diseases, and very palatable. Read the following:—I have much pleasure in stating that I have tried Scott's Emulsion in a case of Impoverished blood, with scrophulous disease, and found it to be a very efficient preparation. It was taken without the least difficulty.—A. TEMPLE PERKINS, 22, Lordship Park, Stoke Newington, N. Any Chemist can supply it.—A. S. Watson & Co. (Ld.), agents in Hongkong and China.—[Advt.]

MR. WICKING AND THE WHARF AND GODOWN COMPANY.

THAT erratic local personality known as Mr. HARRY WICKING has again made himself a conspicuous object for public comment. There is an unfortunate class of men in this world who never know when to let well alone, who lack the discretion to keep quiet when childish babbling can do no earthly good, and Mr. Wickings would appear to belong to that class. This gentleman is a shareholder in the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company, Limited, and he evidently intends not to allow the Hongkong community to forget that fact. It will be remembered that at the third ordinary annual meeting of the Wharf and Godown Company, held on the 28th of June last, a proposal was made and adopted "that a Committee of Investigation be appointed to examine into and report on the working of the Company's business, the directors to appoint two representatives and the shareholders two."

The Board of Directors acquiescing in the proposed inquiry. At an extraordinary meeting, held on July 19th, the Hon. C. P. CHATTA and Mr. L. POSENER were appointed to represent the Board, Mr. C. S. TAYLOR and Mr. HARRY WICKING being the nominees of the general body of shareholders. When this resolution was first brought up for confirmation at another extraordinary meeting, held on August 5th, at which only five shareholders were present outside the Board of Directors, it was lost by two votes to one; but on being put to the vote a second time it was declared carried by four to two. These facts are important as showing exactly the amount of interest taken by shareholders generally in the proposed inquiry.

The ostensible object of the investigation was to examine into the details of the Company's working, and in view of the unsatisfactory character of the management during the previous year, and the opinions current as to the expensive, inefficient and otherwise defective methods employed, we cannot but think that good grounds existed for the action initiated by certain shareholders, and further that the Directors acted wisely in offering every facility for a thorough examination into the alleged defective system. And now Mr. Wickings comes to the front:

To the Hon. J. J. Kewick, Chairman of the Hongkong & Kowloon Wharf & Godown Co., Limited.

Sir,—I forwarded to you my report on the above Company on the 3rd September. As I have not been favoured with an acknowledgment of the same, I shall be glad to learn what steps the Directors propose to take in this matter. I have been led to believe it was part of my duty as one of the representatives of the general body of shareholders to have sent copies of my report to each shareholder, and for this reason I am all the more anxious to learn what steps the Directors intend to take to secure this publicity. It is also desirable to know whether or not it is the intention of the Directors to call a meeting of the shareholders to consider the points raised in the report. I shall be glad of an early answer so that I may be in a position to satisfy the inquiries made to me by shareholders in the Company. In any case this letter and the reply thereto will be published for general information.

I have the honour to remain, Sir, Your obedient servant,

HARRY WICKING.

From this letter it seems that instead of a combined inquiry by the four members of the Committee, that might have been of some utility, each one was called upon to investigate and report independently—a most unsatisfactory and practically valueless mode of procedure. However, that will doubtless be seen hereafter. Mr. Wickings had completed and sent in his report to the Chairman of the Company on September 3rd, and now he wants to know what steps the Directors propose to take in the matter—a very natural and not unreasonable desire, if perhaps slightly premature, considering that the reports of the other investigators had not been received; but when he says he has been led to believe that it was part of his duty, as one of the representatives of the general body of shareholders, to have sent copies of his report to each shareholder, he talks arrant nonsense and displays an ignorance of business routine for which those who know him best will sorely feel inclined to give him full credit. As a matter of course the various reports will be fully and carefully considered by the Board of Directors, and it will be their duty to adopt, reject, or otherwise deal with any suggestions that may have been made. But it should not be overlooked that the uncontrolled management of the Company is solely vested in the hands of the Directors, who are personally responsible to the shareholders, and therefore it by no means follows that any suggested alterations or improvements in the business working of the concern will meet the approval of the Board; nor should we think it likely, as Mr. Wickings assumes, unless under exceptional circumstances, that the Directors will either give publicity to the reports or submit them in detail to the criticism and decision of an extraordinary general meeting. Mr. Wickings entirely misconceives the special purpose for which the Committee of Investigation was appointed. It was not to prepare a series of reports for the edification of a few more or less interested shareholders, but simply to make inquiry into certain details of working, with the object, if possible, of enabling the Directors to effect any improvements on the present system. The "points" raised in the reports will be decided by the Board, and shareholders who wish to make inquiries have no earthly right to bother Mr. Wickings, as he says has been the case, but should apply to the Secretary of the Company. Mr. Wickings has no responsibility whatever in the matter; he has done the work he volunteered to perform and his mission is ended. With all these plain facts staring him in the face, the indiscretion displayed by this irrepressible gentleman in attempting to "put on the screw" in the letter above quoted—"In any case this letter and the reply thereto will be published for general information"—is difficult to understand. It seems marvellous that he did not even go the length of threatening to publish his report for general information, and carefully reading his letter between the lines that would almost appear to be Mr. Wickings' aim and desire. Needless to say the Chairman of the Board rose to the occasion. His reply was brief but crushing. Here it is:—

Hongkong, 3rd October, 1890.

Sir—The report which you forwarded on the 3rd ultimo was duly received and handed by me to Mr. Osborne, Secretary of the Hongkong and Kowloon Wharf and Godown Company, Limited.

As soon as Mr. Osborne has received the reports of other members of the Special Committee, they will be laid before the Directors together with your own.

I am, Sir, Your most obedient servant,

J. Kewick, Chairman, Hongkong & Kowloon Wharf and Godown Co., Limited.

Harry Wickings Esq.

Mr. HARRY WICKING would have been discreet had he exercised a little more patience before so aimlessly rushing into print as the only "general information" his correspondence affords is the very uncomplimentary suggestion that the man who "talks all he knows will talk more than he knows. Great talkers discharge too quickly to take always true aim."

THE MILITARY CONTRIBUTION FRAUD.

A CERTAIN sage of ancient times committed himself to the opinion that "figures cannot lie." A Solomon of the past can very easily be a "Sir Balaam" of the present, and we place the genius we have referred to in the latter category. It may be his misfortune, however, and not altogether a case of blatant ignorance. Our sage did not know Hongkong; he was entirely ignorant of that gigantic imposture known as our "Increased Military Contribution;" Lord Knutsford, the shallowest trickster of the many noodles now figuring as direct representatives of Britain's Majesty, was an unknown quantity; while Mr. EDWARD STANHOPE and the ravenous wolves of the War Office had no tangible existence. The taxpayers of this colony know all about these men and things, however, and are in a position to appreciate them at their proper value.

We have no intention just now of formally impeaching the Colonial Office and the War Department of deliberate and disgraceful breaches of faith with this colony, on the subject of our increased military contribution and local defences; but that is what we mean to do, and in no uncertain terms, after the unofficial members of Council have pointed out and fully exposed the debasing, treacherous and falsehood of the Secretary of State for the Colonies in reference to these matters. The annual addition of £20,000 to our military contribution was granted under special provisions, which were endorsed and agreed by the local Government; these provisions have been grossly and deliberately ignored and set aside, and Lord Knutsford tries to extenuate his contemptible chicanery in a despatch that was laid before the Council yesterday—a despatch which is worthy of Lord Knutsford. The "unofficial" members of the "Legislative" Council and the Hongkong public have been most egregiously fooled by the Colonial Office; they voted all that was asked for as an additional military contribution and for the Imperial defences of this island, but only on the distinct understanding that the limit had been reached, and that no further call would be made on an already heavily taxed community. And what is the result? The War Office laughs at us, and Knutsford, calmly ignoring his former sacred promise, demands that the taxpayers should now make a fair contribution towards the construction of new barracks—which we do not want, unless the old sites are handed back to the colony—and further that, should the necessity for any new defence works arise, their cost would form the subject of a separate agreement, and that it must not be understood that the whole charge for them would be borne by the Imperial Exchequer. If this fraud is attempted to be forced on the community, as seems probable, the whole of the unofficial members of Council, in view of what occurred when the addition to the military contribution and the cost of the local forts were sanctioned, should at once resign, as a strong protest against the inexcusable bad faith of Lord Knutsford and his advisers. The effect of such a step is obvious.

After carefully analysing the Secretary of State's latest attempt at "rattling," we shall deal in detail with his reasons for breaking all past promises and trying to saddle Hongkong with additional burdens in the interests of a practically defunct and corrupt Imperialism. To-day we merely direct attention to the matter, so that the unofficial members of Council may be induced to study the question, see what was officially promised in the past, and be prepared when the time comes to adequately defend the public interests they are presumed to represent. "Figures cannot lie," repeats Lord Knutsford in the parrot-like accents of a nineteenth century fool. The naval and military contributions for the current year for the defence of the Empire, he says, amount to sixteen shillings and five pence per head of the population of Great Britain, and the Hongkong annual contribution of £40,000, adds Sir Balaam, is a very much smaller charge per head than is the case with the Mother Country. And it is here that his lordship's figures lie most glaringly. Will His Excellency the Administrator oblige the Secretary of State and the Hongkong community by publicly stating how many of our by far too highly estimated population of 215,000 pay anything at all towards the revenue? By so doing he will effectually demolish a fallacious argument that is calculated to work infinite mischief both here and elsewhere. Lord Knutsford's arguments respecting the Colony's increased military contribution show a strong family likeness to Mr. J. M. Price's notoriously unreliable statistics about the Tylam Water Works, and will not bear honest inspection.

KOREA AND HER FUTURE.

THERE is no necessity for either the Daily Press or the Peking correspondent of the Times to jump to rash conclusions respecting Russian designs upon the Korean peninsula. The settlement of the question does not rest with China by any means, at all events so long as Great Britain remains, what she now is, the leading Power of the world. It is perfectly true, however, as the Times puts it, that "the agents of Russia are exceedingly active in the peninsula, and are effectively supported by a number of Americans, missionaries and others, who have the ear of the King and flatter him with visions of independence." There was a time, and not so very long ago, when a virtually independent Korea, under the guarantee of the treaty Powers, was a feasible solution of the difficult problem presented by the vexed relations between Korea and China and the Powers with whom the first named country has concluded treaties of amity and commerce. But, mirabile dictu, nothing has stood more in the way of that much-to-be-desired solution of a very grave question than the suicidal policy pursued by China towards her unfortunate so-called vassal. The neutrality of the kingdom should, as many admit, be guaranteed by all the treaty Powers, and China, instead of holding back, should be the very first to take the initiative in such an important political reform. By so doing the Peking Government would be adopting a dignified course which, while tending to prove her earnest desire for the welfare of her neighbour and late vassal, would effectually checkmate Russia's well-known aggressive designs in that small, yet coveted land. As Korea stands at present she is helpless for herself and a danger to other nations, but chiefly to British interests, and such being the case, the policy pursued by Russia, with the aid of such complacent patriots as Judge DENNY, General DYE and Dr. H. N. ALLEN, is rapidly becoming positively dangerous. That Korea has received positive assurances of Russian, Japanese and American co-operation in the coming struggle to throw off the Chinese yoke can, in the light of recent revelations, hardly be doubted, and in point of fact we happen to be in possession of important information and secret correspondence on the subject which in due course will be published in these columns. The situation is certainly grave enough at present; Russia's designs are understood by those who have the best right to view her movements with deep suspicions, and the sooner the necessary steps are taken to stop the never ceasing intrigues of this persistent enemy of British progress in the East, the better it will be for all who have important commercial interests at stake in the event of a sudden outbreak of war in Eastern Asia. That Russia will not be allowed to occupy any part of Korea unchallenged by Great Britain should be clear enough by the tenor of the terms under which we relinquished our hold on Port Hamilton in 1887. We did so under the guarantee of China that "no part of Korea, including Port Hamilton, shall be occupied by any foreign Power." If China is not in a position to maintain that guarantee, then England will have to take up the cudgels for her oriental ally—and Russia knows this. Should the alternative be forced on her, there is not the remotest doubt that Great Britain will not hesitate at once to use the strong hand with Russia should the Czar's Government make the slightest attempt to obtain a foothold in the Land of Morning Calm, and that, too, without considering American intrigues and Japanese pretensions.

BRITISH MERCANTILE MARINE OFFICERS' ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the above named Association was held at the Marine Hotel, Praya West, last night (1st inst.), when Captain S. Weston presided. The Chairman announced that a very courteous reply had been received from the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in reply to the Association's request for a Conference upon the subject of Sunday labour in this port. He believed that the Conference would be fruitful of benefit to all concerned, interested in shipping, for an opportunity would be afforded the Association of showing that its members had no desire whatever to act otherwise, in connection with that important matter, than in concert with owners to their ultimate mutual advantage. There could be but little doubt that a modus vivendi was feasible, and that the best way to arrive at it was for employers and employed to meet together to discuss the question in all its bearings. He was pleased to hear that the first general meeting of a new "Engineers' Association" was being held at the Victoria Hotel. He felt convinced that the Engineers' Association had the hearty sympathy of the deck officers en masse, and that its members would co-operate with them in the best wishes Marine Officers' Association.

The Secretary then read a letter received from the well known British Merchant Service Association of Liverpool, which the Chairman said numbered some thousands strong, and was universally acknowledged to be the most influential Association of mariners that existed throughout the world. He was glad to be able to announce that this influential society had promptly accepted the Hongkong Union's proposals for an alliance. They were now in friendly alliance with the Liverpool Association (loud applause). The letter ran as follows:—

The Mercantile Marine Service Association, Liverpool, August 23rd, 1890.

CHESTER DUNCAN, F.S.Q. British Mercantile Marine Officers' Association, Hongkong.

SIR—I am directed by the Council of this body to convey to you a warm expression of congratulation upon the success which has attended your efforts in the formation of your Association at Hongkong, also to inform you that the Editor of the "Reporter" (our journal) will take notice of the movement among the Mercantile Marine Officers in the Far East.

I have also to state that in view of some expected developments among Masters and Officers in the Hongkong Ports, a further communication at length will shortly be addressed to you. Wishing you every success.

I am, Sir, Yours faithfully, (Sd.) J. J. GRAYLES, Secretary.

With a cordial vote of thanks to the President for his attendance, the proceedings terminated, after the Chairman, in a few words, heartily congratulated the Association on its present very promising position.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

THE famous Kuling is to be converted into a twin-screw steamer by Messrs. Farnham & Co. of Shanghai.

MR. W. S. AYTON took his seat at the Mixed Court, Shanghai, for the first time as British Assessor on the 1st inst.

MONSIEUR A. COG-POT, Consul-General for Chili at Tokyo, arrived yesterday afternoon from Marseilles by the M. M. steamer Natal.

THE body of Alexander Anderson, late third engineer of the steamer Faiching, was found on the river bank near the Shanghai New Dock on the morning of the 1st inst.

We have received an eloquent account of the distress in Chih-li caused by the floods, particularly of which we have from time to time given. Subscriptions to the relief fund will be received by the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

No further news has been received by the Agents of the E. & A. steamer Guthrie, and that its owners have been interrupted by the telegrams to confirm the date of the 6th inst. Messrs. Russell and Co. "question" very much whether the steamer mentioned in the telegram received by Mr. Judd was the Guthrie or the information was only gleaned from native fishermen.

THE Sai Pak of 22nd September (8th moon day) was lost. The steamer was from Yung-tung, through the sub-officer Tse-Yen-hing, is engaged 15,000 of the flood waters to make a channel for the river from Lu Kow-shan (near Peking) to Kiu Men-chi in Kuang-shan, and to excavate the silt of the Yung-tung river to a depth of 10 feet and to utilize the silt for the stopping of the breaches.

FROM Foochow the N. C. Daily News has news to the 27th ult. as follows:—Shipments during the past fortnight have been 21 millions of lbs., carried by the Wingchow and Shanghai making the export to Europe to date 16 millions against 16 millions last year and 2 millions in 1888. The imported steamers for the fortnight amount to 38,000 chests, the best having been for London, Australia and America. The steamer was distributed pretty evenly over the time under review, until the last day or two, when the market became very quiet, owing to the rise in prices and a general fall in the tea trade. The last prices advanced about 15 per cent. all round, including the rise in the order grades advised by the Shanghai market. The tea trade is very quiet, and very little further supplies expected. The market is somewhat depressed, but the result of checking business as above mentioned. The uncertainty regarding the probable rate of exchange for the season will prevail in the supply of insurance by the tea trade. The rate of exchange is the lowest, estimated at 1/20 against 1/20. THE EAST BORNEO PLANTING COMPANY, LIMITED.

A special meeting of the shareholders of the above Company was held at the offices of the managers, Messrs. Gibb, Livingston & Co., on the 6th inst. Mr. C. S. Sharp presided, and among those present were Messrs. B. Layton, H. L. Dalrymple (directors), J. J. Francis, G. C. J. Brodie, S. L. Darby, C. F. Harton, S. S. Benjamin, L. Barff, Michael S. Perry, etc.

The Chairman said that the meeting had been called in consequence of certain communications that had been received from London. It would be remembered that in May last an extraordinary general meeting was held for the purpose of discussing the position of the Company, and to make arrangements for the further carrying on of the estate, and the directors were then authorised to borrow money on the issue of debentures to the extent of $50,000, bearing interest at 12 per cent. for carrying on the cultivation of this season's crop. In accordance with those powers the directors asked for subscriptions, but he regretted to say the issue was unsuccessful, only $14,500 being taken up, and there being very little prospect of any more coming in. It was therefore necessary to see what could be done in other directions for providing the necessary funds, and Mr. Stokes, on leaving for Europe, was requested to use every effort possible to obtain assistance at home. It would appear that he had been successful in this, and that certain people with a view to forming a Company to take over and work the estate of that Company and the Sogei Koyah and Lamag Planting Companies, and a communication had been received from him stating that negotiations for that purpose had been going on, and that it was most advisable that he should be put in a position to agree to the scheme. That meeting had therefore been called to give him that power, and to hear the views of the shareholders. The Company's present position was that they had no further capital to call up, and they had expended not only the $14,500 borrowed on the debentures, but also $31,000 of the results of last year's crop, and the present season's. Thus their debt stood at $45,500, and on the credit side $7,000 for the 1889 crop, and an estimated $70,000 for the 1890 crop, leaving a profit of $40,000. But to get that crop they must start planting at once, and they needed money for that purpose. The new Company would provide working capital sufficient to keep the present cultivation going on, and would undertake extensions of the present work as seemed desirable, paying off all the mortgages and debts of the old Company, and in exchange for the estates giving fully paid-up shares in the new Company in proportion to the sum agreed on. The directors had only heard from Mr. Stokes by telegrams, which were naturally brief, but they had learnt that the capital of the proposed Company was to be $200,000, half of which would be working capital, and the other half for the purchase of the estates. Of the latter amount only so much would be paid as was required to liquidate the old concerns and float the new one, which was estimated at the high figure of $15,000. The remainder would be paid in fully paid-up shares of 25 shares, the proportion for the three Companies would be as follows:—The Sogei Koyah, $10,000; the Lamag, $10,000; and the East Borneo, $10,000. The directors, he might say, favored the scheme, and desired that two shareholders be appointed to act with them in arranging terms with the other Companies, after the latter had held their special meetings.

Mr. Francis asked what the indebtedness of the other Companies was? Mr. Layton replied that the East Borneo Company's indebtedness was the largest, amounting to $200,000. The Sogei Koyah Co. had borrowed no money, and had calls still being paid, and the Lamag Co. had only a small liability. He urged the appointment of two representatives to the meeting, to assist the directors if not to adopt the scheme suggested to formulate another.

Mr. Francis made an elaborate calculation; the Company had spent its original capital of $200,000, borrowed and spent $20,000 more, and had about $77,000 in hand and in prospect. Therefore if they chose they could take that balance, leave the estates fallow for a few years, and wait for better times. On the other hand there was the offer of the new Company to take $175,000 among the three planting companies. $75,000 were $340,000. That, divided among 15,000 shares, gave about $22.66 per share, and as the $50 paid for the old ones, it would be a big working capital to go on with and run the estates at a profit. He thought the scheme a very reasonable one, subject to some modifications.

Mr. Garfit asked if the scheme was a definite one, or if it was simply one that might be arranged?

The Chairman said there was nothing definitely offered.

Mr. Layton then proposed "That the directors be empowered to take the necessary steps to amalgamate this Company, or the Sogei Koyah and the Lamag Planting Companies, or either of them with a new Company, to be formed to acquire the assets and liabilities of this Company, or of this Company in conjunction with the said Companies, and to settle the terms of such amalgamation."

Mr. Wickling seconded, and it was agreed to. On the motion of Mr. Layton, seconded by Mr. Wickling, Mr. Francis was appointed to act as the shareholders' representative, and the proceedings terminated.

THE SONGEI KOYAH PLANTING CO., LIMITED.

A special meeting of the shareholders of the above named Company was held at noon on the 7th inst., at the offices of the General Managers, Messrs. Gibb, Livingston & Co., for the purpose of discussing certain proposals for the re-arranging of the Company's affairs. There were present:—Messrs. C. S. Sharp (Chairman), H. L. Dalrymple, B. Layton, J. A. Mosely, and E. E. Abrahamson (directors), J. J. Francis, de W. Layton, H. W. Dick, G. S. Coxon, S. Perry, S. A. Joseph, etc.

The Chairman said that he had read the report of the proceedings at the special meeting of the East Borneo Company held yesterday, and their business was much the same, he would be brief. The Company's funds would all be required for the preparation of this season's crop, and there would be no further calls for the next year's cultivation, so there was no need to prevent the estate from running to jungle again; they were looking for funds. They had therefore taken advantage of Mr. Stokes being in London to try and obtain assistance there. Mr. Stokes certainly had not put forward any definite offer, but he had given the opinion that he could float a Company with a capital of $200,000 to take over their estates and those of the East Borneo and Lamag Planting Companies. Full particulars had not yet been received, but they knew the outlines—the new Company was to find $200,000, half of which would be for working the estates, $150,000 for the expenses of floating the Company, and the remaining $150,000 would be divided among the three amalgamating Companies in proportions to be hereafter agreed upon. At the meeting of the East Borneo Company the shareholders gave their consent to the scheme, and he hoped that the Sogei Koyah shareholders would do the same. In the opinion of the Consulting Committee and the General Managers, the shareholders, if they approved, ought to appoint one of their number to act with them in considering the terms of the amalgamation. The position of their Company at present was that they had $10,000 in hand, and calls still unpaid $8,500, on the other hand they had $19,000. Of that they would have to spend about $17,000 on this year's crop. The proceeds of the crop were estimated at five pence each for the 125 fields—625 pence, worth about $50,000, which would be about the amount of the surplus. Mr. Abrahamson, who had just come up from Sandakan, reported that the work was going on very favorably indeed, and that the cutting of the crop was very well advanced. The manager, Mr. Kennedy, had left. He then invited remarks. There being none offered,

Mr. Dalrymple moved—That the directors of this Company be empowered to take the necessary steps to amalgamate this Company, or this Company together with the East Borneo Planting Company, Limited, or the Lamag Planting Company, Limited, or any one of them, with the said Company to be formed to acquire the estates and liabilities of this Company, or of this Company in conjunction with the East Borneo Planting Company, Limited, and the Lamag Planting Company, Limited, and to settle the terms of such amalgamation.

Mr. Coxon seconded, and it was agreed to. Mr. Dalrymple asked Mr. Francis to act as the shareholders' representative, to which that gentleman assented, and the proceedings terminated.

LAMAG PLANTING COMPANY, LTD.

A special meeting of the shareholders of the above Company was held on the 7th inst. at the offices of the General Managers, Messrs. Gibb, Livingston & Co., for the purpose of discussing proposals for the future working of the Company. There were present:—Messrs. C. S. Sharp (Chairman), H. L. Dalrymple, B. Layton, E. Abrahamson, W. G. Brodie, G. S. Coxon, J. Andrew, J. S. Gomes, and J. Machado.

The Chairman briefly repeated the statement made at the Sogei Koyah meeting, adding that their funds were exhausted in preparing this season's crop, and further funds would therefore be required. In answer to Mr. Gomes, he said that the proportion the Company would receive from the London Company was that although the shares of the other planting companies were $50 each, whilst theirs were only $25, the former had paid more for coolies who died, so that the Lamag concern had the advantage of them in that respect.

The Chairman replied that that would all be considered at the conference of the directors. Mr. Coxon—As Mr. Abrahamson has just returned from Borneo perhaps he can inform us what the position of the estates is. It was rumored here that they had been much damaged by floods.

Mr. Abrahamson said that there certainly had been some small damage, about nine fields being flooded about three months ago, but it was not too late to re-plant, and that had been done, on higher ground. In all something over 600,000 trees had been planted in 600 fields and there was no danger of further damage. About a quarter of the crops had been already reaped, and the rest should be also inside the sheds by the end of the month. Even the crops on the flooded fields were not entirely spoiled. The estate was very healthy; although, last year, there was an epidemic of dysentery, from which fifty or sixty coolies died, the death rate since had been very light—only one or two a month, and there was practically no sickness.

Mr. Coxon—It has also been reported that the land was not quite so well adapted for tobacco planting as in other places, and from what you have said we gather that the lower levels are flooded at times—does it lie in such a position as to be inundated by the river?

Mr. Abrahamson—During very high floods, when there should be no tobacco in the fields, certain parts are liable to be flooded if the river is not dammed.

Mr. Coxon—Which would involve further expense?

Mr. Abrahamson—Yes, but much of the land is quite above flood level.

Mr. Coxon—In your opinion is the land quite as good as any in the vicinity?

Mr. Abrahamson—Decidedly; I think it is superior to many estates, because it is higher up the river, and as the growth is very luxuriant the land must be rich. All the flooded land can be dammed up later on; it is usual when planting in low lying land, but there is quite enough high land by the river to keep this Company going for many years without going to that expense.

Mr. Coxon—It is expensive enough working the estate, without any damming.

Mr. Abrahamson—Last year was an extraordinary year, because there was so much sickness, but take a year like this, which has not been very successful, indeed rather dry—if we had average years like this, and we had sufficient capital to carry on, I am perfectly certain that it would pay. In the first years there is considerable extra expense, preparing for the next year's cultivation, for instance—one-third of the cost of next season's cultivation has already borne, but the longer you go on the less the expense, because there are so many buildings, roads, etc., which cost you nothing once they are made.

Mr. Layton—Are the prospects in Borneo generally better?

Mr. Abrahamson—Yes, decidedly.

On the motion of Mr. Dalrymple, seconded by Mr. Abrahamson, a resolution similar to that adopted at the Sogei Koyah meeting was passed, and Mr. Abrahamson appointed to act on behalf of the shareholders.

UNION INSURANCE SOCIETY OF CANTON, LIMITED.

The following is the report for presentation to the shareholders at the seventeenth ordinary meeting to be held at the Society's Office at noon on Monday, the 13th October, 1890:—

The Directors have now to submit to the shareholders a report of the business of the Society for the year 1889, and for the six months ending the 30th June 1890.

The gross premium collected for the year 1889, after deducting returns and reinsurance, amounted to $1,219,080.50.

After providing for a Bonus of 20 per cent. on Contributions paid in May last, there remains at credit of Working Account a balance of $102,958.82 as per annexed statement.

From this sum the Directors recommended the payment of a dividend of 4 per cent. per share, equivalent to 48 per cent. on the paid up capital of $1,219,080.50, and an addition to the Reserve Fund of $37,550, raising the Reserve to $770,000. The balance of $102,958.82 is proposed to be carried forward to meet liabilities and claims still outstanding, and thus close the account for the year 1889.

The position of the Society for the present year, so far as it can be ascertained, is as follows:—

Balance of Working Account to the 30th June as per annexed statement.

ment	$331,916.66
Add estimate of Premium to 30th September	300,000.00

"LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY."

"Vapid" is about the most appropriate adjective that can be applied to "The Little Lord Fauntleroy," which at the Theatre Royal, City Hall, on Saturday night (Oct. 4th). There was an extremely satisfactory attendance of patrons of the drama, but the play itself was considerably below their expectations.

Mr. Francis Hodgson Burnett wrote a nice little book for nice little boys; but another nice little boy—an unattractive storybook—indeed, a good little boy who played with shoe-blacks in New York and yet never lost his velvet suit, and who called his ma, "dearest," and who turned out to be heir to an earldom. And when he was introduced to the insouciant, aristocratic, father he behaved so angelically, and looks so like a concentrated Sunday-school that the old man becomes nobly sentimental, immediately spends his wealth on his tenant, assisted by the New York shoeblack and an elderly grocer, also from the Empire City, who have called round to foil the machinations of an extremely rare species of adventurer who turns up with an opposition Lord Fauntleroy with manners far from being so cherubim.

This is the story, and very nice it is, as may be guessed. But when Mrs. Burnett dramatized it she over-estimated her powers. She sought to have stuck more to the hum vices—worked in a street-fight between her little hero and hoodlum in the first act, or made him send a dog into a state of paralysis with a few New York idioms. Failing that, she ought to apply for a judicial injunction restraining any theatrical managers from producing the piece in its present impossible condition.

As regards Saturday night's impersonation Miss Gracie Plaiside did all she could, by her bright, volatile acting of the title rôle, to sustain public interest, and as far as was possible she succeeded. But when a young girl of twenty-three (she has admitted her age to us, so we know) tries to pretend she's a little boy of eleven, she strains the spectators' credulity till it cracks, and lands the public in a sea of doubt. (Especially when "dearest" is played in a receding kind of way, we regret to state, was Miss Lawrence's method; and if Dick is a "tough," the rest of the characters are such that nobody could possibly sustain them.)

CRICKET.
FIRST XI v. ALL COMERS.

The opening match of the season, First Eleven v. All Comers, was commenced on the Cricket Ground on Friday afternoon (3rd inst.) and terminated on Saturday morning in a victory for the eleven by 7 wickets and 17 runs. Considering the time of year the weather was surprisingly fine, and the ground has rarely been in better order. Recent dry weather enabled a first-class pitch to be prepared, and although at the finish it was somewhat worn and bumpy, there was certainly very little room for fault finding. A considerable amount of general interest was manifested in this match, as the number of debutants was far in excess of any previous year, and rumour had been busy with the merits of several strangers who had won fame in the tented field in other lands. Any sanguine anticipation, however, as to this test match providing additional strength to a representative Hongkong team, were scarcely realised by results. In fact, with the exception of Captain Carden, R.A., who batted in excellent style; Frank Lammer, who will play good cricket after a few weeks' practice; W. Newton, a free bat and active field; and G. Woodcock, who was unlucky enough to lose his wicket each innings before getting fairly settled down, the new-comers signally failed to distinguish themselves. Of course, one match, and especially at the beginning of the season when men are clean out of practice, is no fair criterion of ability; and it is therefore quite on the cards that several players who were under a cloud on Friday and Saturday will come to the front later on in the season.

Play commenced shortly after two o'clock on Friday the eleven electing to take the field. The first innings of the "All Comers" was chiefly conspicuous for the promising show made by Captain Carden, Newton, Woodcock and Frank Lammer, the last named piling up 25 in capital style; and for the sorry display made by the "tail," the last ten wickets only realising 13 runs. The total score amounted to 109. Blair bowled with phenomenal success, his leg-twisters accounting for 13 wickets at a cost of 29 runs; Sercombe Smith had 4 for 12, E. W. Maitland 3 for 13, and Lawson 3 for 24. The fielding of the Eleven all round was very nearly first class.

Traversers and the whole of the field were forward by the next mail. Mr. Becher, writing on the loss of the Jais mine, alluded to having to face the consequence of his reporting to the shareholders without having the information he intended collecting. That culminating disaster, added to the gloom of immediate prospects, would, he feared, make it difficult to reconcile the shareholders with the existing state of things, and he could only trust that a settlement of the difficulty would be arrived at when the new Company improved the present critical position, and arranged about sharing the expenses of the work. Crushing of some 60 tons of quartz was the result of which the 110 foot level, the whole of the old mine had forwarded by the next mail.
